Happy Birthday!

July 23. Jim Mabry was born in 1946. That was the year the U of Penn made a computer that would add, subtract, multiply and do a square root. However it had 18,000 vacuum tubes and weighted 30 tons.

July 24, Lew Ward was born in 1930. That is the year Pan American Air merged with Western Air to form Transcontinental and Western Air – TWA. And Lindberg flew cross-country in 14 hours and 45 minutes.

July 27, Don Henderson was born in 1956. That's the year bus segregation was declared unconstitutional, and Ike won a second term.

July 28, Sanku Rao was born in 1946, the year that the U.S. constructed rockets that would fly up 100 miles to explore the stratosphere. The Germans used the rockets to bomb London during WWI.

July 28, Dean Shaw was born in 1964, the year the Beatles invaded America. And the Civil Rights Act became law.
